Nazi Supreme Command Arranges for Reception of French Plenipotentiaries — Germany Places Full Attention To Destruction of Great Britain—Retaliatory Air Attacks On England Inaugurated.

(By International News Service)

BORDEAUX, June 20 — Formal announcement that France has named plenipotentiaries to negotiate an armistice with Nazi Germany was made by Premier Marshal Andre Petain in a radio broadcast today.

"Too few armaments, too few arms, and too few allies were the cause of our defeat," the 84-year-old hero of Verdun said in a shaking voice.

"People of France: I have asked the enemy to put an end to hostilities. The government, yesterday, appointed Ambassadors to receive the conditions of peace.

"I took this decision with the strong heart of a soldier, because the military situation imposed it.

"Due to difficulties of communication by way of Spain," the official announcement said, "the Reich government received information of these appointments only at one o'clock this morning, and it was delivered to the Fuehrer at four a. m.

"The German supreme command immediately gave the necessary instructions and made arrangements for the reception of the French plenipotentiaries."

BERLIN, June 20 — Accepting the capitulation of France as a foregone conclusion, Nazi Germany placed full attention to the destruction of Great Britain today.

The German high command announced inauguration of "retaliatory" air attacks upon England with an important nitrogen works at Dillingham bombed and other military objectives successfully attacked.

So far as France is concerned, the high command announced capture of 200,000 additional prisoners and officials pointed to this claim as "black out" militarily and politically regardless of whether she accepts or rejects the German-Italian peace terms.

It is merely a matter of days, German spokesmen declared, before the last region of resistance in France is blanketed by the rapidly advancing Nazi troops.

The time and basis of armistice negotiations will be announced during the day.

Continue Platform Drafting

Philadelphia, June 20 — Faced with a threatened revolt of isolationists, Congressmen against the proposed flexibility "aid to the Allies short of war" plank, the powerful Republican platform committee split up into small groups today and went forward with the work of drafting a satisfactory party platform to adopt for the convention next week.

The work of the sub-committee started after hearings by the full committee which lasted into the morning hours, featuring the appearance of the two rival labor leaders, C. I. O.'s John L. Lewis, and A. F. of L.'s William Green for the climax for the bolting Congressmen.

Harvey Haddad, Schuylkill Haven, To Cross America On A Dime

TO WORK FOR NEEDS

Haddad, who graduated a few days ago from Schuylkill Haven High School, started on his trek the day following receipt of his diploma.

The lad is on one of the most unusual trips ever attempted by youth, in his attempt to "cross America on a dime." The dime was presented to him by Ray R. Sterner, president of Schuylkill Haven Rotary Club.

The young man is confident that he can work his way, in this manner securing food, clothes, transportation, etc., eventually reaching the West Coast, and returning home within the next four or five months.

The valuable experience that will be his, he has hopes of incorporating in a book. Haddad is a correspondent for the Pottsville Republican. While enroute he is writing a daily column for the Pottsville newspaper.

He arrived in Philadelphia Friday noon, spent the evening in the Central Y. M. C. A., and on Saturday was guest of the Philadelphia "Phillies" when they played the Cardinals. Leaving Philadelphia Saturday evening he arrived in Edgely later in the evening. On Sunday he went to Trenton, and then to the New York World's Fair.

Washington, June 19. — The plan of the President to form a vast "cartel system" which will establish economic unity among all the "Americas" as a bulwark against German economic domination is one of those things that sound better than they are. It is perhaps a helpful gesture and it aids in preserving an illusion more or less necessary. But that it can be put into effective operation few posted people believe.

ALL Presidents, more or less, have taken the attitude that the interests, aims, ideals and governmental principles of the United States and the Latin-American republics

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

The sum of $5 in change was the loot secured by two youthful unmasked bandits, when at one o'clock Tuesday morning they entered the "611 Diner," Doylestown.

James L. Klein, 42, employed at the place, was forced into a small room at the point of a blue steel revolver and told to stay there. The bandits quickly searched the place and left in an automobile.

Klein, who lives next door, ran to his home and called the police. Corporal Herman and Private Kohler, of the Doylestown sub-station, investigated, together with Private Jacobs, of the Easton sub-station of Motor Police. Klein was so excited that he could not give the police a description of the bandits other than the fact they were young and unmasked.

The bandits first ordered a cup of coffee and then told Klein "It's a stick-up."

The diner is owned by Lester March, of Cattel street, Easton.

A sale of registered Holstein cattle, owned by the estate of the late Willis M. Hunsberger, and held in the grove of "Belle Crest Farm," near Plumsteadville, was attended by over 1,000 people, Monday. The great crowd included many Holstein breeders and dairymen from points throughout Eastern states.

From a very small beginning, the late Mr. Hunsberger, who about a month ago died of injuries received when he fell from a tractor, built up this herd of 60 head, one of the best of its breed in this part of the country. During the afternoon some very high prices were received.

Heading the list for high prices was a herd sire, "Dean of The Pearls," which brought exactly $2100. This was said to have been the highest auction price paid for a registered Holstein bull since 1936. The animal was purchased by Joseph O. Canby, Hulmeville.

Upon the recommendation of Doylestown Councilman G. Thawley Hayman and Burgess John J. Sweeney, a "stop sign" will be erected on Church street at the Court street intersection, and at any other intersection in Doylestown needing better traffic control.

This action was taken at the June meeting of Council. It was also suggested that a better marking be adopted at the entrance to East State street on Broad street, where many motorists still make a left-hand turn and proceed the wrong way on East State street.

Miss Betty Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fleming, Wycombe, on Sunday christened the cabin cruiser, "Josetoo," recently completed by Frank Nogradi, Sr., and son, Frank, Jr., Doylestown.

Following the christening, Mr. and Mrs. Nogradi entertained a few guests at dinner aboard the "Josetoo."

DEMOCRACY FOREVER

When and if democracy in Europe appears to be crushed by totalitarian arms, the voices of the wavering here will begin to be heard, about as follows:

That maybe democracy is on the way out, has seen its day in the evolution of society; that it is outworn, and worn out, without the strength or the will to survive against a conception of the state with a single authority, a single force and a single purpose. This is what the Duce has bawled from the balconies; it is implicit in all Hitler has done and plans to do. And there is the evidence of events of the past year to support them both.

Actually, they prove nothing of the sort. The most they can possibly prove is that a nation willing to devote ten years to putting all its energy into preparation for a war, lavishing all its resources and abundant ingenuity on the construction of the latest in death-dealing devices, sacrificing every value in life that can not be impressed into war use, denying millions any access to world opinion and to the truth as it is seen in the outer world, can presumably overwhelm with arms a society which tries to put any considerable part of its thought and energy into a peaceful order of living.

Well—there are any number of small, tough "football colleges" that can score rings around Chicago. Does it signify that they are better institutions, that they contribute more to any scheme of society that can be called a civilization?

Yet the wavering will have to accept that thesis. And among them may be some of the bigger shots, beguiled by hopes that they will be in command in the new order, as was Thyssen, the angel of the infant Nazi party, who is now a man without a country and—what is worse, no doubt, from his point of view—a capitalist with no capital.

Maintaining a democracy is a difficult art. It must be mastered. It must be taught to its young and its converts, one by one. It is susceptible to abuses, which, however, can usually be cured by more democracy. By its nature, it is often indecisive and looks had in issues with an authoritarian adversary speaking singly and boldly. And this indecision may well be the destruction of its physical evidences.

But the spirit that informs it will live in the hearts of men. It can move them to miracles of exertion transcending even those of the god-state and its serfs. For the weak and doubting now, and those inclined to ride with what seems to be a tide, a look through history, in which this year will be just another hour, is urged if they are measuring the totalitarian way of life beside the one Americans know.

Two brothers of Lord Haw Haw, the renegade Englishman who broadcasts from Berlin, have been thrown into jail in London, which may reduce his leadership to not much more than a snicker.

Science declares that only one-fourth of a person's mind is at work when he thinks, and in lots of cases it is the wrong fourth at that.

Gone from the brink of war are last year's familiar faces. Only Turkey is left, studying the jump and wondering.

A Maine mob trying to storm a jail! Mercy! Will that revive the anti-lynching bill?

canal. Among the companies responding were Bristol Consolidated Department, Tullytown, Edgely, and Morrisville.

The flames were discovered at about four o'clock, by Joseph Rech, father of the operator of the tap room. The elder Rech and his wife resided with their son, Joseph, and his family. Last night the elder Rech and his grandson, William, 4, occupied the same room and the grandfather was aroused as his grandson had become uncovered. The grandfather got up to cover up the youngster and said he smelled smoke. He opened a door and the flames shot in at him.

The other members of the family were aroused. The elder couple and the grandchild climbed from the window onto the roof, while the younger couple jumped from a second story window at the front of the building. Mrs. Rech suffered a bruised leg and a sprained ankle. They did not have time to save any of their clothing and this morning Mr. Rech visited the scene of the ruins dressed in clothing he had borrowed.

Rech said that he thinks the fire started in the back of the building. There was no fire in the place and Mr. Rech retired this morning at about 1:30 o'clock.

Rech says that the furniture in the house was new and valued at about $3,000, while he estimates the value of his equipment at about $1,000. The building he estimated at $6,000. All is insured, he stated.

The flames gained much headway before the arrival of the firemen. The flames leaped high into the air and, fanned by a stiff breeze out of the north, leaped across the road and licked the front of the double house of Joseph Lind. The Lind property is covered by imitation brick siding and this covering was damaged, as well as glass in the windows and doors which was broken by the heat.

"Flying Blind" by VERA BROWN

SYNOPSIS

The national air races are about to start. In the stand, Judith Aimes reviles herself for having quarreled with her husband, Tex, one of the contestants, that morning. What if something happens to him? Her nerves are on edge. The fears of her companion, Elsie Stone, for her own flyer husband, Marvin, further aggravate Judith. So it is with relief that she accepts Lee Holt's invitation to join him in a cup of coffee before he enters "The Greve," the event before Tex's. It is no secret that Lee is fond of Judith. She inquires about Tex. Lee tells her everything is fine, but his evident uneasiness disturbs her.

CHAPTER TWO

Lee did not add that he'd found Tex sitting in the back of his car smoking a cigarette with Sonia Winthrop. Lee got away from them as soon as he could. But Tex with a gal on race day! Tex who was as temperamental as a ballet dancer and didn't want anybody to even speak to him.

And he seemed to be enjoying himself, so much so that he looked guilty when Lee came along. Not that Sonia wasn't a knockout. She was. All the gang were crazy about her. She'd done a great job in the cross country race. Navigated like an old sea captain and asked nothing of any of them. If it had been anybody except Tex, Lee wouldn't have given the matter another thought. But Lee had heard Tex hold forth on women fliers! He loathed them. He was not the type to sit around with a blond an hour before a big race.

Judith was lost in thought. There WAS something wrong.

"Lee, look at me. You know you can't lie to me."

"Pretty sure of me, aren't you?"

He tried banter. And he wondered if she'd heard any gossip. But Judith was not to be put off.

"You're my friend, Lee. You'd tell me if there was anything I should know."

Lee's voice was honestly sincere as he answered: "You know I would. Well, here's luck! Tex doesn't need it, he's got it."

Then he changed the subject. He knew how Judith felt about the trophy. It brought bad luck to anyone who won it. And bad luck for men who flew the stuff Tex flew meant only one thing.

"What are you two planning for tonight after the banquet?"

Judith sighed: "We'll be mulling about as usual, I suppose. You know how it is."

Lee grinned: "Too well. But I'm on the wagon, unless I win. If I do, there'll be no holding me."

He wanted to ask Judith if she and Tex were going to Sonny Winthrop's party. All the big shots would be there; Sonny had oodles of money. It should be quite a party. But he thought better of it, and let that go.

Judith would have noticed Lee's preoccupation if she had not been so absorbed in her own troubles.

"Lee, Tex and I had an awful row this morning at breakfast."

Lee shrugged: "So what? You know Tex on race days."

"That's what makes it so bad. I shouldn't have been such a fool."

She looked at Lee appealingly. "What did you fight about?" Lee was scared for a moment.

"I can't even remember! He left without kissing me good-bye."

Lee nodded: "O. K. I'll see him, tell him what you said."

"No, just give him my love, and wish him luck for me."

They collected the food for Elsie and left. Lee walked ahead, to force his way through the crowds. There was no more chance to talk.

"Tex is crazy about her but then everybody is," said the blondest blonde.

"Good luck, Lee."

He looked so lonely and desperate just for a moment.

"Pigeons still fluttering?"

Lee's crooked smile rewarded her efforts: "I'll say! But just so the wings stay on my ship it's O. K. with me."

Then Lee disappeared in the crowd.

As Judith fought her way up the stairs to the press stand, she pondered his mood. Lee wasn't himself today. That was certain. This racing business! She'd be glad when Tex was back on his regular run. That was bad enough but this she could not stand.

Elsie seemed a little more cheerful when Judith joined her. She managed to drink some of the coffee and eat part of a sandwich. They settled down to wait for Lee's race, which he won. That last hour which Judith so dreaded went quickly.

When they brought Lee to the microphone before the grandstand for a bow, he waved to Judith. Just a little while more. The crowds which had been milling around outside the grand stand were streaming into the bleachers and the boxes. The big race was coming up.

Out on the race track, seven the plane were taking off slowly into position. Victory III, all silver paint, glittered in the sun. So small, it looked as though it had no wings.

Three girls came down the aisle and squeezed themselves into a small space next to Judith. They chattered incessantly. "He's simply darling! Sonny had a date with him last night and he's coming to her party tonight!"

"Which is his ship?" asked one of them. "Don't ask me, they all look alike. Sonny was out to the hangar today and he showed her everything about his ship. . . . "There she is now, by the fence. See her red hat?"

They craned and stood up to see better. Judith was annoyed. Why should they let such people into the press box? Elsie was weeping quietly, clinging to Judith's arm.

"He's crazy about her, but then everybody is," giggled the blondest blonde. Judith wanted to slap her!

"Sonny has a thousand on him. Tex told her he was bound to win."

Judith sat in stiffened silence. Her hands were clasped together in her lap. She hadn't really looked at her wedding ring for a long time. Now it startled her, there on her left hand.

Elsie gasped. The first ship was off. Judith did not even see it. All the forebodings of the last few weeks swept back upon her

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

For A Delicacy In Vegetables Try Deep-Fry Idea

If the family is getting tired of eating creamed or buttered vegetables every day just because the garden is prolific, your deep-lard kettle suggests the possibility of making ordinary vegetables a delicacy. If properly fried in deep fat they will retain their nutrients and be easily digested by the normal person.

Cooking in deep fat is a simple procedure. Inez S. Willson, home economist, finds that lard is an excellent frying medium. Lard is economical for use in your home; it adds flavor, richness and food value to foods fried in it. This all adds up to economy with satisfaction.

Watch the Temperature

A temperature of 375 degrees F. is considered best for deep-fat frying vegetables. This temperature is high but is below the smoking point of lard. Lard should never be heated to the smoking stage. The use of a deep-fat thermometer is the ideal way of telling the temperature of the fat, but if a one-inch cube of bread dropped into hot lard browns in 40 seconds, the temperature of the lard is about 370 degrees F., which is a guide.

Most vegetables are better if dipped into an egg mixture, then into crumbs before they are put in the hot lard. The egg can be diluted with the vegetable liquor if a canned vegetable is used or with milk if fresh vegetables are fried.

Either cracker crumbs or fine bread crumbs may be used. The vegetable is rolled first in the crumbs, then in the egg mixture and again in crumbs.

Many Vegetables Suitable

Vegetables of soft consistency, such as asparagus tips, are deep-lard fried more successfully if chilled after dipping and before putting into the hot lard.

Onion rings may be French-fried nicely by soaking in milk for one-half hour then dipping in seasoned flour. They're particularly excellent with liver or steak.

Cauliflower or carrots should be cooked slightly before deep-lard frying. Among vegetables which can be fried in deep lard are asparagus, carrots, cauliflower, parsnips, onions, sweet potatoes, white potatoes, long green beans, egg plant, and slices of green pepper.

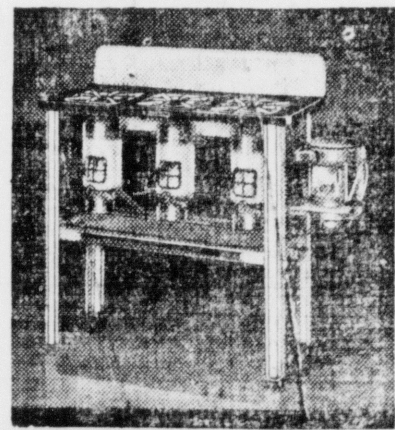

Preparing vegetables in this way adds a bit of well, perhaps it's aristocracy, to serving them. They are a treat to be sure, but such a delightful change and so easy to do that we can afford to treat our families regularly.

The members taken into membership are: Lester Trauger, Harry G. Trauger, Harry D. Trauger, Arthur Pearson, W. E. Savacool, Elmer D. Reichley, Paul T. Fretz, Richard Gierse, Erwin Phillips, Erwin Slotter and Joseph Eldridge.

In addition to the $300 "lift" from the Rescue treasury, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the local company turned over to the company a check for $700, earmarked for the purchase of hose. Recently every foot of hose was tested and nearly 400 feet discarded. The Auxiliary check will more than replenish the hose discarded.

The Rescue Fire Company dates back to the days of hand and horse-drawn apparatus. It was organized to provide protection to the third ward, the extreme end of which is nearly two miles from the Perkasie fire house. After the purchase of motorized equipment, the necessity of a second company no longer existed, but the company, while inactive, had a sizeable sum in the treasury and never formally disbanded.

Bristol Elks To Support Buch For Head of Order

Joseph G. Buch, of Trenton, whose services in the field of activity for crippled children has covered two decades, is slated to be the next Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Mr. Buch is the unanimous choice of New Jersey Elksdom for the position, which has never been held by a citizen of this State in the 70 years existence of the Order.

The Past Grand Exalted Rulers of the fraternity, at a session held last February, also unanimously agreed to support Mr. Buch.

Joseph G. Buch was initiated into membership in Trenton Lodge, No. 105 in 1906 and became its Exalted Ruler in 1909. In 1916 he was elected Treasurer of his Lodge and has held that office since that year. In 1918 Mr. Buch was appointed District Deputy for the then Grand Exalted Ruler, and in the following year was appointed as a member of the Grand Lodge Credentials Committee. In 1921 the New Jersey State Elks Association elected Mr. Buch as a Trustee and in the following year elected him to the office of President of the Association.

During his many years of service in Elksdom, Mr. Buch has served upon many Grand Lodge, State Association and Lodge committees, but the Crippled Children's Committee remained highest in his affection. In 1929 he was appointed a special Grand Deputy to visit Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, California, Oregon and Washington to explain the New Jersey State Association plan for assistance to crippled children. Since 1926 Mr. Buch has been a member of the State Crippled Children's Commission by appointment of the Governor of the State of New Jersey, and at present serves as Chairman-Director.

Mr. Buch is a member of the New Jersey Rehabilitation Commission and is chairman of the Unemployment Compensation Commission for the State of New Jersey, as well as a member of the New Jersey Council and Advisory Committee, National Youth Administration.

In 1939 Mr. Buch was appointed as Grand Trustee of the Elks to fill a vacancy and later in the year was elected to that office from which he recently resigned to become a candidate for the office of Grand Exalted Ruler.

The election for the office of Grand Exalted Ruler will be held at the Grand Lodge Convention in Houston, Texas, in July and Exalted Ruler Horace P. Schmidt, of Bristol Lodge, No. 970, has announced that as delegate to the convention from the local Lodge he will cast his vote for Mr. Buch.

system and their systems are the same just isn't so.

THE truth is that the feeling of these nations toward the United States varies from one of lukewarm friendliness to one of intense resentment and suspicion. Among the more hard-headed State Department officials, this absence of brotherly love is not only freely conceded but the conviction is held that there never will be anything like warm national regard between them and us. There are a good many reasons for this upon which there is not space here to dwell, but fundamentally, they can be summed up in the statement that there is not only a political but a racial gulf between us. Those with the best grasp of the facts are convinced not only that the cost of any defense of this hemisphere will have to be borne wholly by the United States but that some of the South American countries do not want to be defended by us, really would rather deal with Europe.

ACTUALLY, the German influence as of today in many of these South American countries is far greater than ours; in some it is clearly dominant. For one thing, the air lines that run up both coasts from Tierra del Fuego to Guiana on the west and Colombia on the east are completely under Nazi control. There are in the three countries closest to the Panama Canal: Venezuela, 4,000 Germans; Colombia, 3,600 Germans; Ecuador, 5,500 Germans. In Brazil there are 900,000 Germans; in Argentina, 335,000; in Chile, 200,000; in Paraguay, 20,000; in Montevideo, 10,000; in Peru, 3,300 Germans.

ALTOGETHER, it is estimated that there are 1,500,000 Germans in South America and there are two Nazi-controlled air bases not too far off from the Panama Canal. In addition, the United States News asserts that one-third of the population of Uruguay is Italian, that there are 3,000,000 Italians in Argentina and 2,000,000 in Brazil. To a considerable extent these German and Italian groups dominate the industry, agriculture and finance of these nations—and sometimes their politics. While the Germans are less numerous than the Italians, they are infinitely more dominant. These figures, obtained from the most reliable source, show an astounding penetration and explain the deep concern of Administration officials over the South American situation.

WITH these things in mind, the recent speech of President Vargas of Brazil, in which he seemed to incline toward the dictators and away from the Rooseveltian friendship, naturally caused perturbation, and the relief was great when it was later explained that a wrong interpretation had been put on it and Brazil really loved us as a brother. That isn't true, of course, and the inside facts of the incident have not been published. What has been published is that some weeks ago we were on the point of sending troops to Brazil to "assist in keeping order." Altogether the South American situation is bad. If trouble comes for us with Germany, it is almost certain to come from that direction.

THE more candid officials here admit this privately, though publicly, of course, they strongly proclaim the Good Will policy and cling to the Big Brother pose. Soon or late, they feel that a hundred per cent. insistence upon the Monroe Doctrine is apt to force us into defending nations that don't really want to be defended and will not aid us in the defense. Perhaps they are wrong, but the figures showing the extraordinary Nazi penetration now existing at least deserve consideration. Neither the President nor the State Department officials can afford to speak on the subject, but there are some—not officials—who can and do.

ONE of these is former Ambassador James W. Gerard, who frequently sees Mr. Roosevelt. Said Mr. Gerard the other day: "Two of the most prosperous states in Brazil are practically German. When I was in Germany I saw that the Government was taking every measure to keep them Germanic. That is where the first attack against us will come, spreading to the Argentine and then, perhaps, to Mexico, where the Nazis and Communists are allying against us now."

Perhaps it isn't as bad as Mr. Gerard asserts, but there certainly are facts enough to make this Big Brother-Good Neighbor stuff seem a little silly. There is, of course, nothing else to do, but it seems to some that it might be wise not to get ourselves too deeply committed to defend too many people.

STATE NEWS

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Italian participation in the second World War will cost the Pittsburgh area an estimated $9,000,000 as 200-odd export and import firms fell under President Roosevelt's ban closing the Mediterranean Sea to American shipping.

It was estimated by C. A. Carpenter, of the local Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, that the country as a whole would probably suffer to the extent of $315,000,000 per year in exports and imports.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers: 1. Upon his return from his travels he brought back a pair of spectacles, given to him by a Mandarin, and reported that they were in general use in China. This was about 1270 A.D.

2. Thermometers began to make their appearance in English hospitals about the time of our Civil War. They were about 10 inches long, so large in fact that it took five minutes to register temperature in the armpit. Sir Lauder Brunton relates they were so clumsy that one carried them "like a gun." Sir Clifford Allbutt invented the modern pocket thermometer in 1868.

3. No. Contortionists, or persons spoken of as having double joints, merely have longer ligaments holding the ends of the bones together, which allow a greater freedom of action.

The Armstrong Cork Company, with principal offices in Lancaster, was hardest hit when the ban became effective, because it had previously made large purchases of unmanufactured cork from the Mediterranean area.

Company officials stated: "Our whole cork industry is entirely dependent on imported cork."

It was hoped, however, that the industry might be able to import cork through some open Portuguese port which did not fall under the combat zone proclamation. Other imports which might effect the market in the United States, are Turkish tobacco, long staple cotton, olive oil, figs, nuts, washed wool, cheese and goat skins.

SUNDAY DINNER

Suggestions

SUMMER menu—planning often presents many difficulties for the housewife. Appetites are likely to be capricious and many foods which would cause appreciative remarks during the winter months, would be merely sampled by the family on a hot Sunday. Perhaps then, one Sunday during the month, you might concentrate on fish, which can be served in so many interesting ways, for your family dinner. With this fish dinner, you can have many vegetables, fruits which are in market this week. Watermelons are more numerous and more reasonable, peaches are an attractive addition to the dessert list, and the berry supply runs the gamut of varieties from loganberries to gooseberries. Vegetable specials for the coming week are asparagus, wax and lima beans, beets, cabbage, peas, spinach and tomatoes.

Here are three menus planned for your Sunday dinner by Miss Cora Anthony of the A&P kitchen at different price levels:

Low Cost Dinner

Pan Fried Butterfish With Lemon Slices
Parslaid New Potatoes
Fresh Buttered Asparagus
Bread and Butter
Fresh Strawberry Ice
Iced Tea or Coffee

Moderate Cost Dinner

Tomato Juice Cocktail
Broiled Fresh Salmon Slices with Lemon
Broiled Potatoes With Grated Cheese
Fresh Lima Bean and Corn Succotash
Bread and Butter
Cucumber and Lettuce Salad
Blackberry Flummery
Iced Coffee or Iced Tea

Very Special Dinner

Watermelon

neither too high nor too low. If any one of these factors is overlooked or incorrect, it may cause skipped stitches or broken threads.

Next look at the threading of the needle and bobbin. Improper threading of the bobbin may cause looped stitches on the top of the cloth. Incorrect threading of the needle, or a bobbin wound too full, uneven, or loose, may cause broken threads.

If both needle and bobbin seem to be all right, check the tension by looking at a sample of trial stitching. If the upper tension is too loose, looped stitches appear on the bottom of the cloth. If the lower tension is loose, the looped stitches are on the top of the fabric. If the tension is too tight, the material will pucker and the thread may break.

If you find the top thread lies along the goods, the top tension is too tight or the bottom one too loose. To correct this, loosen the top tension. If that doesn't help, tighten both tensions. But if the bottom thread lies along the goods either the bottom tension is too tight or the top one too loose. To remedy it, tighten the upper tension. If that doesn't work, loosen both tensions.

If these home remedies fail to correct the faults, call a machine mechanic and have him go over the machine thoroughly. Ask him to check all parts of the machine so that you can continue your sewing without interruptions.

Fall Salad Crops Are the Finest of the Year

The finest salad crops of the whole year are the fall crops. Not only lettuce can be grown then, but Chinese cabbage and chicory, both of which are at their best after a light frost and possess a flavor far superior to lettuce.

Advice is often given to sow seed for fall crops in July. But it is a mistake to wait too long. Summer sowing is not the easy task that spring sowing is. The cool, moist weather which seeds like best for germination cannot be counted on. As a rule, summer sowing should be deeper than winter sowing. A trench a few inches deep should be scooped out, and the ground soaked thoroughly by running water into it. Seed should be sown at the bottom and covered more deeply than usual. Do not fill the trench, but leave it to catch dews and light rains.

If the ground is very hard and dry and the days are hot it may be wise to cover the seed bed with cloth or even with paper in order to check evaporation until the seeds have sprouted. Seeds put into the ground without precautions to provide moisture are very likely to remain inactive, and a disappointed gardener will declare that this talk about midsummer sowing is all wrong.

Cauliflower, brussels sprouts, head lettuce, kohlrabi, kale, spinach, turnips, carrots, beets, radishes, peas and beans may be planted for a fall crop with unusual assurances this year of harvesting them all.

The great advantage of fall salad crops over those of spring is that there is no temptation to go to seed. Instead of lengthening days and warmer weather as the crop mature, the days grow shorter and cooler. Either the temperature or the duration of daylight gives plants the signal to go to seed in the summer time, and in the fall this signal is not received. So head lettuce goes on heading and Chinese cabbage makes big, cylindrical heads of tender crispness, and we enjoy the finest salad of the year until killing frosts arrive. Chicory, or endive, is an especially fine fall salad. Its bitterness disappears with the first light frosts.

LANDRETH NINE TO PLAY GERMANTOWN TEAM HERE TONIGHT

East Germantown To Oppose "Farmers" at Landreth Ball Park

TEAM RANKS HIGH

Ranks With the Leading Independent Teams in This Area

This evening, East Germantown will oppose Landreth's Seeds at Landreth Ball Park.

East Germantown has had a good ball club in the field for 16 consecutive seasons and the team ranks this year with the leading independent teams of that district. Two former Germantown Leost Cardinals, who were standouts in the Philadelphia League last year, are among the feature players of East Germantown.

Mike Dunleavy is captain and first baseman, and Jim Weinrach is the star pitcher. The balance of the club is made up of well-known semi-pros in the North Philadelphia territory.

East Germantown is backed by the political club in that section.

The pitching staff is composed of Weinrach, Andrews and Hughton, with Johnnie Watson receiving. The infield consists of Dunleavy, first base; Walter, second base; Smith, third base; Faye, short stop. This is a fast fielding combination. Schulte plays left field; Cronin, center field, and Green, right field, and they are all good hitters.

So far this season the team has been performing commendably, winning a majority of their games, so they should give the "Farmers" a good game, which will start tonight at 8:15 p. m.

LEGION JUNIOR NINE LOSES TO PERKASIE

The Bristol Legion Junior nine lost the decision to the Perkaskie team last evening on the Landreth ball field. Final score stood 8-3 and it was the first defeat of the season for the local youngsters.

Perkaskie won because it played a better brand of ball than Bristol. The local boys were not on their toes in the early stages of the game and many balls fell for hits that should have been put in the "out" column.

Manager Henry Morgan used three hurlers in an effort to change the tide of the tilt. Teddie DeVoe started. He was rapped for a run in the first and when two more crossed in the second, he was yanked in favor of Barnes. Barnes pitched the remainder of the inning and when he went back in the following frame, "Red" Rotundo took up the hill job. He did well until the last inning when three runs scored.

"Bobby" Frick was the winning moundsman and although nipped for nine hits was aided by wonderful fielding. Two double-plays by Perkaskie in the early stages of the game was a big help to their defense.

Joe Gerhart and Big Jim Eisenhart led Perkaskie with the stick while Nick Palumbo did some nice lumber work for Bristol, getting three out of four.

Penna. Delegates May Hold Key To Nomination

fought struggle, are expected to vote for James until released by caucus action.

The switch of this large bloc of votes to a candidate might conceivably assure his nomination. Leaders recalled the 1928 convention at Kansas City when William S. Vare, leader of the Pennsylvania delegation, swung this State's vote to Herbert Hoover and assured the Californian's nomination on his first ballot. The Vare decision broke the backbone of the anti-Hoover bloc.
